

Nonexclusive License for Copyright

I, CHUMPON APISUK, acknowledge that in connection with No Country: Contemporary Art for South and Southeast Asia (the "Exhibition"), the first exhibition of the Guggenheim UBS MAP Global Art Initiative, the Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation is publishing a catalogue that includes an essay by curator June Yap (the "Essay"). The Essay will also be published in digital form on the Guggenheim Museum's website as an online text and PDF format.

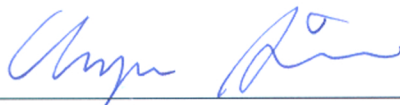

The Guggenheim is a not-for-profit institution with a charitable and educational mission; it works to promote art and to develop an understanding and appreciation of art by the public. In support of the Guggenheim, I hereby waive any royalties or other fees that I might otherwise request or collect, whether individually or through any agent, heirs, gallery or artists' rights societies, for the rights granted below.

I hereby grant to the Guggenheim a perpetual, nonexclusive, royalty-free right to produce and reproduce images of artworks Standing (2011) created by me and included in the Essay (collectively, the "Images"), whether said Images are created by the Guggenheim or are lawfully obtained from me or from third parties, and to use the Images, in any media now known or not yet invented, throughout the world, in the Essay, and more generally, for the educational, promotional and publicity purposes related to the Exhibition.

For all other rights not specified in this license, the Guggenheim shall seek my additional permission and will direct inquiring third parties to do the same.

I understand that the Guggenheim shall credit me as the copyright owner of the artwork whenever the Images are used and that it shall also credit photographers of the Images whenever practicable.
